WINTER EDITION

Welcome!

Normally, we don't have a Winter newsletter because nothing really happens before April, but not this year! We've been busy, so this newsletter is going to be a little longer than normal. I hope this edition captures the highlights of everything we've been doing over the past few months, and if you have any questions, don't hesitate to ping me in the forums, FB, or through email.

Trail Committee Meeting—January 13th

Very productive meeting at O'Connors in Worcester. We worked off of last year's schedule—mixing up the runs and events so that there's a good blend of Saturday & Sunday runs plus a few Friday runs, some night wheeling, and a few camping events.

Hopefully there's enough dates so that everyone can fit BSJ events into their busy schedule.

The 2024 Event Schedule is on the Forum and updated regularly plus the latest version will be in each newsletter. Huge thanks to Seamus for developing the schedule in an online Google doc - allowing easy updates as needed. He also kept the meeting on track!

Jeep History

World War II:

When it became clear that the United States would be involved in the European theater of World War II, the Army contacted 135 companies to create working prototypes of a four-wheel drive reconnaissance car. Only two companies responded: the American Bantam Car Company and Willys-Overland. The Army set a seemingly impossible deadline of 49 days to supply a working prototype. Willys asked for more time, but was refused. American Bantam had only a small staff with nobody to draft the vehicle plans, so chief engineer Harold Crist hired Karl Probst, a talented freelance designer from Detroit. After turning down Bantam's initial request, Probst responded to an Army request and began work on July 17, 1940, initially without salary.

Probst drafted the full plans in just two days for the Bantam prototype known as the BRC or Bantam Reconnaissance Car, working up a cost estimate the next day. Bantam's bid was submitted on July 22, complete with blueprints. Much of the vehicle could be assembled from off-the-shelf automotive parts, and custom four-wheel drivetrain components were to be supplied by Spicer. The hand-built prototype was completed in Butler, Pennsylvania and driven to Camp Holabird, Maryland on September 23 for Army testing. The vehicle met all the Army's criteria except engine torque.

Rutland Run — March 23rd

Images: Amanda Sauer

After the Spring Meeting, several attendees braved the ice and rain to tackle several trails in Rutland, MA!

Amanda: "We had a small group with a few new members go off-roading afterwards. No damage, no tree hitting... no flops. Good few hours."

Troy, NH Run — March 24th

Images: Jonathan Hight,
Ken Bell

Jonathan Hight: "Had a fun day today."

Ken Bell: "It was a interesting day in Troy today. They got a lot of snow and it was heavy, wet, slippery, and slowed progress. On the trail leading to the power lines is one hill that is sometimes difficult even in good conditions. Tree roots on both sides makes climbing it difficult sometimes. Of the 7 jeeps, only one made it without assistance, although he may have hurt his motor. The rest of us winched, no big deal. Just another day wheeling. Mother Nature just threw us a curve, that's all. Everyone had a good day."
